INSPIRATIONAL STAINED GLASS

Neil Ireson is a contemporary stained glass artist and painter, specialising in the creation of inspirational stained glass to commission. Neil studied BA Fine Art (Painting) in the late 1970's at The Central School of Art in London, where he also studied stained glass under Patrick Reynolds OBE, followed by an MA in the History of Art at London University. Initially setting up a studio in north London in the mid 1980's, followed by a move to Surrey where he worked from his studio for thirty years, prior to moving to Bath in 2017, following the loss of his wife.

Since then, he set up his studio in Bath and has been working to commission for a wide range of clients. Neil has established a significant reputation both in the UK and abroad for creating imaginative and beautiful artworks for a range of diverse projects in residential, ecclesiastical and commercial environments. In 2019, Neil was invited by Caroline Swash (Previous Hon Secretary for the British Society of Master Glass Painters) to talk about his work alongside John Reynolds, at the Worshipful Company of Glaziers.
